ORGANISATIONAL CHANGE AT RÖSSING URANIUM

The Chairman of the Rössing Board of Directors, Rehabeam Hoveka, announced today that the Company's Managing Director, Chris Salisbury, has been offered another role within the Rio Tinto group, as Manager Director Rio Tinto Coal Australia (RTCA). He will be transitioning to Australia later this year.

RTCA is one of the largest businesses within Rio Tinto's energy product group.

The Chairman congratulated Chris on his appointment to this role which he said is testimony to his leadership capability, and consistent with the results he has achieved in his two years at Rössing.

He said that under the Managing Director's leadership Rössing has significantly improved safety and operational performance, and made very positive changes in workplace culture.

Chris is well respected by employees and the Board, and his strong leadership and vision will be missed.

The Board will be commencing the process to source a new Managing Director immediately.
